Dear Saiyidain:

This note represents a very belated message to thank you for making it possible for us to have a reunion in Delhi, and to give you a communique on the communal circumstances, character, general condition, companionship, compassion, comportment and cordiality of your lovely daughter, Syeda.

I found her living with a small coven of other bewitching young creatures.

I had tea in their spacious mansion, Syeda and I went out for a night on the town, Sheh'leh joined us for a period of disporting ourselves in the waves, and the two of them took me on a drive around the sea coast, and finally, Syeda and Saman got up at the break of day to drive me to the airport. I am trying very hard to think of some kind of an assignment that will take me back to the East via Hawaii so that I can drop down into that lovely lotus land and beguile myself once again with these lovely sirens.

There is not much to report from here, Ruth and Sylvia are in good health and Sylvia is doing very well at NYU, and looking more beautiful every day.

I keep dividing my activities between New York and the Washington office and the amount of work to be accomplished seems to grow continuously.

I do hope that you and my brother Robert have had a chance to get together, I know that you will enjoy each other. I am sending on to Syeda this afternoon some pictures taken of you and our happy event that afternoon, also some pictures taken a Syeda and her friends, and I shall ask her to forward them on to you. Please give my warmest regards to your lovely daughters and the whole family circle -- my warmest wishes for the New Year,

Cordially,

Jack
