My dear Khwaja Sahab,

I was agreeably surprised to receive your warm-hearted letter of appreciation. The task is indeed very difficult, and the difficulty is increased as I have no one here near me, whom I ~~could~~^{might} consult in case of my own doubts before delivering my matter to the Press. This leads at times into mistakes. As my health does not permit me to move about and come in to direct contact with people, I am often charged as being influenced by dishonest correspondents,

who paint things blacker than they are. Letters the refuge, of appreciation such as one of yours,
serve to reassure me
that my handicaps do not lead me too much astray.

I understand from all quarters that you are trying your level best
to develop Nai Talim.
It is an uphill task, but I think once it catches the progress will be better than now.
With kind regards
K. V. Krishna Rao
